I checked the upload record for 80-001150, and it looks like there were 12 logins and 1 agency inspection on there (but no breath test). I have attached a copy of that inspection for your records (just make sure to add your signature at the bottom). Since you were unable to recall either the breath test or the agency inspection from the instrument memory, even after cycling the power, that does not seem like a printer problem, so I agree with your decision to send it to repair.

We could not get an upload or find the file. We did an A.I. and it went great, but when we went to print we got no file found/located. We did however upload, and it seemed to take a few minutes as if there was something transmitted. We are sending it to Enforcement Electronics in the next few day I think.
