

Restructuring for Improved Communications

Michael R. Cramer

Law enforcement agencies have traditionally had a top-down, hierarchical style and structure of management. Such a management style seriously impedes two-way communication and damages effective service delivery. This research presents a model for restructuring traditional law enforcement agencies to a flatter, streamlined model for improved communication and enhanced organizational effectiveness.