What is MEPICAB?

The Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) Missing Endangered Persons Information Clearinghouse Advisory Board (MEPICAB) was created in 1996 to address issues dealing with Florida's missing children. The MEPICAB is a diverse mix of law enforcement officials, victim parents, government agencies, missing children non-profit organizations, and members of the business community with interest in missing children issues.

The mission of the Missing Endangered Persons Information Clearinghouse Advisory Board is to support awareness, education, and training for the prevention, response, and recovery of missing and endangered persons.

The Advisory Board meets quarterly to discuss and implement plans and policies to combat and create an awareness of the large number of children that go missing every year. Board members are chosen by FDLE's Commissioner from around the state, to provide balanced representation of Florida.

A Special Thanks to Craig Schroeder

In July 2016, former FDLE member Craig Schroeder joined the Enforcement and Investigative Support (EIS) Bureau as the Florida Missing Children's Day (FMCD) coordinator supporting staff for the Missing and Endangered Person Information Clearinghouse Advisory Board (MEPICAB) and the Florida Missing Children's Day Foundation (FMCDF).

During his tenure, Craig facilitated logistics for the FMCD event and supported the meetings and vision of the MEPICAB and FMCDF. Craig developed the inaugural edition of the MEPICAB Newsletter.

Craig was a jovial and respected member of the EIS team who departed this summer to become an English teacher for middle school students. The MEPICAB extends a special THANK YOU for all of Craig's hard work over the last 4 years.

2020 Florida Missing Children's Day

Florida's First Lady Casey DeSantis expressed hope and remembrance for the children who are missing on Florida Missing Children's Day, September 14, 2020. Florida is dedicated to finding and preventing future tragedies. First Lady DeSantis encouraged Floridians to sign up for missing person alerts and to "be aware, be on the lookout, and be alert, because one missing child is too many." Florida Missing Children's Day is held to honor and remember Florida's missing children and to recognize individuals for the work they do to keep children safe in Florida. The ceremony is broken into two parts; recognition for outstanding service to the state's missing and endangered persons and a Time of Remembrance for the missing children in Florida. You can sign up for alerts at <http://www.fdle.state.fl.us/>.

Governor Ron DeSantis said, "Missing Children's Day is a solemn day of commemoration, where we look for hope in a shadow of tragedy and stand together to remember our most vulnerable citizens. We praise our most heroic who work every day to protect our children and bring those missing home safely."

FDLE Commissioner Rick Swearingen said, "The safety of Florida's children and families remains the top priority for FDLE, as is the successful recovery of those who are currently missing."

Combating Human Trafficking Award-

Officer Jeffrey Arbogast

In February, Officer Arbogast stopped a stolen vehicle. When questioning the driver of the car, a 15-year-old girl, he became suspicious. The teen, a runaway, was frightened and became upset when Officer Arbogast mentioned the vehicle's owner. Even though the child refused to speak, he continued his investigation thinking the situation involved more than a stolen vehicle. Officer Arbogast confirmed the girl was a human trafficking victim who stole the car to escape from the man that was trafficking her.
